Hello All You Wonderful People,

Well....it's hot....it's cold....it's rainy....it's exceptionally dry....the wind is terrible....it's just opposite the way it's supposed to be!!! It's that way everywhere. This is just a weird summer for all of us. It kind of makes you wonder what the winter is going to be. The leaves are already changing colors here and the birds are flocking to head south.

They're finally ready! This is what we have been waiting for since the paints went into the bottles. These are great! I want to thank my husband, John, for coming up with the final concept – and making them for us. This is an introductory price – it will go up in January 2010.

They set on a table and they fit in the canvas Paint Carrier (C500) that we already have.

That means you can store them by hanging them on a nail - or carry them with you if you're traveling to a class or on vacation.

You can set them out on a flat surface and do your projects without having to pull the paints out of the Carrier and putting them back in all the time.

With the Carrier's loops, you can put your accessories right in the carrier and four (4) of the Paint Racks (C350) will fit in there and carry every bottle of paint in the Line (with a few holes left over).

C350 - $7.50 each – (for the rest of this year)

It takes four (4) Paint Racks to store all the paints in the Line and those four (4) Paint Racks will stack right in your Paint Carrier (C500)

Each Rack holds 28 Paints.

Now something that's out of the Line: Large Blotter Pads (C452) is no longer in the Line as of September 1, 2009. I don't have that many orders for them and they're a bear to ship. C351 – Blotter Pads (2) will stay in the Line. These are sold in 2's and are exactly one (1) C352 cut in half. So they are actually the same price as each of the bigger blotters was.

I'm glad to see that the 'costumers' around the country are finding our paints. They are perfect for any 'costume department'. They can be used from the ball-point tip, with a brush or with an air-brush. The paint dries fast and the costume can go out on stage in just a short while after being done.

You'll find a new 'Accessories' page in your newsletter. It will include the new C350 – Paint Rack and will not include the C352 – Large Blotters. Feel free to copy this for your customers.

On the other side of the 'Accessories' page is a new paper on 'Uses for Fabric Glue'. I am open to making this a bigger paper if you have more ideas on the uses of Fabric Glue (C379). I just wanted to get suggestions out there for those of you that have never used it before.

I'm including the 'How To' page for the new Halloween 'Make It and Take it' Class. I want to thank all the good folks that painted these so I could get them out this month so you would have time to set these classes up at your schools, Girl Scouts, etc. (The people that come to my workshop every month don't always do what's listed – a lot of times they just help me with things so that I can get them out in the next newsletter.) I figured the earlier the better. Hope you have fun doing the designs.

Having not made any mobiles before – John and I spent a lot of time just getting the three (3) pieces of cardboard stung together.

The next morning I strung to designs on. That went pretty fast. I had already cut out the designs so they were ready to string up.

October Seminar 2009

I thought it was time to get the Registration Form out. For those of you that are on the internet, you can actually register right on line with PayPal or a credit card.

Monthly Special
Monthly Special

Let's do the "Green Bones Are Hams" transfer on whatever you want to put it on. That will give you a leg up on your Halloween designs.

I have it on a Long sleeve t-shirt and I have gotten lots of good comments on it already.

Transfers

T4806 – Green Bones are Hams

I painted this one at the Monroe County Fair while I was waiting for customers to stop and see me. It got a lot of good comments. It's fast and easy – just outline and fill in. I hope you all enjoy it as much as I do.

T4807 – Butterfly, Bird & Flower

This one is from Christy Lee. It will go on a Mini Flag (P322) or a shirt or any thing else you want something exciting on.

T4808 – Flowering Dogwood

Although Dogwood comes in many colors, I think we mainly see them painted in white. Since it was going to be white, I thought I would put it on a colored shirt so it would show up better.

T4809 – Christmas Bell 2

This set of designs is among my favorite – so here's the second one. It will go on just about anything – but it's really great for a Mini Flag to hang on the front door or in the entry hall.

T4810 – Azalea & Fence

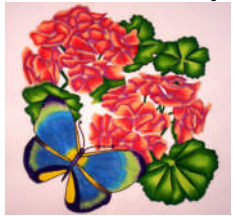

An old design but one that I think a lot of you will like. You get to practice your shading on this one – and it's worth the effort.
